AN IMMIGRANT FROM LAPLAND.

He Is Omnipresent and Makes Himself at Home Everywhere.

It will doubtless prove a gratifying piece of information about an old and familiar and almost friendly enemy, especially should you find him imbedded in your breakfast roll, that he hails from Lapland originally. The entomologist states that, "although the cockroach is a universal feeder, it prefers wheat flour to all other articles of diet. It is therefore a common pest about bakeshops, and notwithstanding the utmost care on the part of the baker it sometimes becomes imbedded in the dough and baked in the loaf." This rather unexpected defense of the baker on the part of the entomologist is not as appeasing to your displeasure as the the scientist would doubtless have it as you pluck the plump and well preserved ectobia from your roll and deposit it on the edge of your plate as though it were a raisin.

The entomologist confesses to a neglect on the part of science of this family blattadæ, to which the cockroach belongs. However, he mentions a list of 900 different species classified in the British museum. He otherwise defends them by pronouncing them the best of household scavengers, as they devour all small vermin in their usual nightly patrol. The eggs of this insect, he informs us, are all laid at one time and are incased in a purselike pod. The egg cases are of the same elastic material that covers the bodies of the insects themselves, and when the young escape it closes again, and the empty shell is left behind her.

Ergo, when you discover one of these shells, instead of congratulating yourself that an old patriarch has been gathered to his fathers, know for a certainty that a new generation has just been launched upon your pantry shelves.

While the entomologist classifies the cockroach and makes a synopsis of him the unscientific but observant head of the culinary department becomes on even closer terms of intimacy with him. Friendly, fleet footed and prolific, self preservation is deep rooted in his nature, and shyness, suspicion and rare intelligence are his qualifications.

He abhors solitude, and when the family moves to be rid of him, as families do in the springtime, he moves with them. Perchance but one of him moves, but he rallies whole armies to the new field. He is like the wind that listeth—you cannot tell whence he cometh nor whither he goeth. He is perpetual. Other entomological domestic attachments, more or less active, fragrant and annoying, manifest a disposition to absent themselves for an occasional season, but the cockroach is like the poor, with you always.

He intrudes on the sacred recesses of the larder and refrigerator. He swims in the cream soup, finds death sweet in the sirup pitcher, bakes in the bread, scalds in the soup tureen, is mangled in the pancake batter and hides in the coffeepot. He gambols over the best china and holds conventions in the flour barrel. He shuns surreptitious traps and tidbits planned for his destruction, and with unparalleled wisdom dodges out of sight on the approach of the enemy The domestic department knows him as he is—knows him through living conflicts waged winter and summer—and could contribute facts of a personal nature to the aspect he bears to the entomologist.—Baltimore Sun.

Sunday Mornings.

What a hallowed quiet seems to pervade the atmosphere Sunday mornings! Tired nature seems to have arrayed herself for the occasion, and if you are anywhere within the limits of civilization the distinctive characteristics of the day will impress themselves upon you more earnestly perhaps than anything else has done during the whole of the week through which you have just passed. The blessing of Sunday rest and relaxation is inestimable. Through it both our physical and spiritual organisms are refreshed and renewed. Apart from its special purpose as a day devoted to religious service, one must admit the wise provision of infinite wisdom in providing such a periodical season of material rest for tired nature.—Jenness Miller Monthly.

Mme. Beauharnais.

The domestic arrangements of Mme. Beauharnais had a certain display of luxury, as is often the case with creoles. There were superfluities and a want of necessaries of life. Poultry, game and rare fruits filled the kitchen—it was a time of extreme dearth—but with all this there was a deficiency of saucepans, of glasses and of plates, and these were borrowed from our humble menage. Our relations were limited to these neighborly offices, though Mme. Pasquier had known Mme. Beauharnais before the revolution.—"Memoirs of Chancellor Pasquier."

No Offense Intended.

Mrs. Minks—I don't want to make a scene, but that man over there is staring at me very offensively.

Mr. Minks—He is, eh? I'll speak to him.

Mrs. Minks (a few moments later)—Did he apologize?

Mr. Minks—Yes. He said he was looking for his mother and thought at first that you were she.—New York Weekly.

Russian Images.

The manufacture of ikons, the sacred images so universally venerated by the orthodox Russians, forms a very considerable household industry in the governments of Vladimir and Kursk, where from 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 ikons are yearly produced. These images are painted on lime tree, alder and aspen boards by boys, girls, adults and old men. Each family of four to five workers produces annually not fewer than 3,000 ikons, the total earnings being from 200 to 400 rubles a year.

The ikon is painted by one workman, as in the government of Kursk, or it goes successively to many, as practiced in the government of Vladimir. In the latter case the first workman only lays the ground on the boards. Another paints the faces, the third the hands and drapery, while the fourth writes the superscriptions, and so on. Sometimes only the faces and hands are painted, and the remaining part of the image—the dress, crown, etc.—is covered with trimmings of stamped foil (rizy) variously ornamented. The painting of the images is very coarse, but this fact in no way impedes the spread of this branch of household industry, not only among the peasant population of Russia, but of that of Servia, Bulgaria and other Slavonic countries.—London News.

A Curious Phenomenon.

A singular phenomenon occurs on the borders of the Red sea at a place called Nakous, where intermittent underground sounds have been heard for an unknown number of centuries. It is situated at about half a mile's distance from the shore, whence a long reach of sands ascends rapidly to a height of 300 feet. This reach is about 80 feet wide and resembles an amphitheater, being walled in by low rocks. The sounds comme up from the ground at this place recur at intervals of about an hour. They at first resemble a low murmur, but ere long there is heard a loud knocking somewhat like the strokes of a bell, and which at the end of about five minutes becomes so strong as to agitate the sand.

The explanation of this curious phenomenon given by the Arabs is that there is a convent under the ground here, and that these sounds are those of the bell which the monks ring for prayers. So they call it Nakous, which means a bell. The Arabs affirm that the noise so frightens their camels when they hear it as to render them furious. Philosophers attribute the sound to suppressed volcanic action—probably to the bubbling of gas or vapors underground.—Newcastle (England) Chronicle.

An Anecdote of Gladstone.

The following anecdote appears in "Reminiscences of a Literary and Clerical Life." It was told at a dinner party by the great man himself. Mr. Gladstone said that all through his life he had been an excellent sleeper, and it was only on one occasion that he had ever lost a night's rest. All drew up their chairs more closely to hear the extraordinary matter that caused the premier to lie sleepless. They expected it might be some story of the greatest importance.

"I had been trying," he said, "to cut down an oak at Hagley and was getting on with it very well. Then I heard the dinner bell ring, and I was obliged to leave the work unfinished, although not much remained to be done. As I took my candle and went up stairs the wind had risen high and was making a great noise. I went to bed, and then the thought occurred to me that the wind would topple down my oak. The thought occurred to me again and again, and I really lost a good deal of a night's rest through that oak."

His Valuable Experience Account.

"When I lose anything," says a well known Maine business man, "I charge it to the account of experience. You may think it strange, but I believe the good sized sum I have already entered under that head is the most profitable money I ever spent. Adversity is the great teacher if we but heed her lessons. I lost $500 once in a transaction that gave me information and a proper respect for matters I had deemed of little account, from which I afterward made $5,000. I would not sell my experience account at my age for five times what it has cost me, for I shan't live long enough to get sharpened up again."—Lewiston Journal.

A Mohave Superstition.

The Mohave Indians of the far west have one curious superstition that is supposed to be of comparatively recent origin. They refuse to eat the flesh of the beaver and declare that who so eats beaver's flesh will have a swollen neck. An agent who lived for some time among the Mohaves conjectures that some of the Indians must have eaten the flesh of beavers poisoned for their skins and died with swollen necks. The memory has been handed down through the tribe, and no Mohave eats beaver's flesh since that day.—Philadelphia Press.

Midnight Civilities.

Mrs. Brown (nudging Mr. Brown, who snores with his mouth open)—William, you'd make less noise if you'd keep your mouth shut.

Mr. Brown (only half awake)—So'd you.—Life.

GULLS ARE SACRED IN UTAH.

Why Grateful Mormons Impose a Fine of $5 For Killing the Bird.

Most interesting of the birds that we saw on our daily walk to the pasture were the gulls—great, beautiful, snowy creatures, who looked strangely out of place so far away from the seashore. Stranger, too, than their change of residence was their change of manners from the wild, unapproachable sea birds, soaring and diving and apparently spending their lives on wings. From this high place in our thoughts, from this realm of poetry and mystery, to come down almost to the tameness of the barnyard fowl is a marvelous transformation, and one is tempted to believe the solemn announcement of the Salt Lake prophet that the Lord sent them to his chosen people.

The occasion of this alleged special favor to the Latter Day Saints was the advent about 20 years ago of clouds of grasshoppers, before which the crops of the western states and territories were destroyed as by fire. It was then, in their hour of greatest need, when the food upon which depended a whole people was threatened, that these beautiful winged messengers appeared. In large flocks they came, from no one knows where, and settled like so many sparrows all over the land, devouring almost without ceasing the hosts of the foe. The crops were saved, and all Deseret rejoiced.

Was it any wonder that a people trained to regard the head of their church as the direct representative of the highest should believe these to be really birds of God and should accordingly cherish them? Well would it be for themselves if other Christian peoples were equally believing, and protected and cherished other winged messengers sent just as truly to protect their crops. The shrewd man who wielded the destinies of his people beside the Salt lake secured the future usefulness of what they considered the miraculous visitation by fixing a penalty of $5 upon the head of every gull in the territory.

And now, the birds having found congenial nesting places on solitary islands in the lake, their descendants are so fearless and so tame that they habitually follow the plow like a flock of chickens, rising from almost under the feet of the indifferent horses and settling down at once in the furrow behind, seeking out grubs and larvæ and mice and moles that the plow has disturbed in its passage. The Mormon cultivator has sense enough to appreciate such service, and no man or boy dreams of lifting a finger against his best friend. Extraordinary indeed was this sight to eyes accustomed to seeing every bird that attempts to render such like service shot and snared and swept from the face of the earth. Our hearts warmed toward the "sons of Zion," and our respect for their intelligence increased as we hurried down to the field to see this latter day wonder.—Atlantic Monthly.

No Buddhists In India.

There are no Buddhists in India. There are many in Ceylon, and there is a sect of them in Nepal, an independent territory to the north on the borders of Buddhistic Tibet. The religion vanished from India in the early centuries of the Christian era. The neo-Brahmans set anti-Buddhas, so to speak, in the figures of Krishna, Mahadeva and Rama—demigods and idols of the great neo Brahmanic religions, Vishnu worship and Siva worship—and these swept everything else before them until the Mohammedan conquest, and at the present day in one shape or another these forms of belief are adhered to by five-sixths of the population, the remainder being Mussulmans. The Buddhists are gone, though not without leaving behind them a rich legacy of philosophic thought and many monuments of their artistic genius.—Marion Crawford in Century.

"Treating" Customers.

The customer who is in the habit of taking solace out of the clay pipe may experience a beatitude through a choice Havana cigar which will allay discordant feelings and put him in good buying humor. But it must be handled cautiously by the traveler, and it must never appear that he goes about with a case full of the article intended expressly for the purpose of giving him an audience with the trade. The dealer is not to be bought, and if the offering of a cigar carries with it the remotest intimation of this sort the traveler had better pack his grip on the spot.—Traveling Salesman.

The Common View.

"Don't you believe the world is growing better?" asked the enthusiastic young woman.

"Well," replied the old gentleman, "the older people are less pig headed and prejudiced than were elderly people when I was a youth. But I do not think the young men of the present day have half the enterprise or judgment of those of my time."—Indianapolis Journal.

One Little Favor.

She—No, it can never be. I do not love you enough to be your wife. But before you go I want to ask one favor.

He (dejectedly)—Well, what?

She—Please do not marry any one else.—New York Weekly.

The Famine Fare of Beleaguered Paris.

Everybody conversant with the history of the siege of Paris by the Germans will remember that the inhabitants of the beleaguered city were fed for a time on the flesh of African and Asiatic beasts and birds of prey from the zoological gardens. There has lately been discovered a packet of letters which throw an interesting light on this matter. These documents have been deposited in the Carnavalet museum. They were addressed by M. Geoffroy Saint Hilaire, director of the Jardin d'Acclimation in the Bois de Boulogne, to M. Deboos, a butcher on the Boulevard Haussmann, and refer to the prices which were asked for the animals required for the nourishment of starving Parisians.

Zebras, buffaloes, reindeer, antelope, wild boars, a kangaroo, a cassowary and a black swan were killed during the month of October, 1870, together with several rare ducks, pheasants and geese. The cassowary was sold for £8 and the kangaroo for half that sum. In November an antelope fetched £40, and prices began to ascend rapidly all round. Thus a bear cost the butcher Deboos £20, and £88 was given for a wild boar. During the Christmas period two camels from the garden were sold at £200. On Dec. 29 M. Deboos took over the two elephants, which were the veritable pieces de resistance of his food supply. They cost him 27,000 francs, or £1,080. He soon sawed up their colossal carcasses and sold the pieces at a profit.—London Telegraph.

Imitative of the Fish.

It would probably be found that a smooth surface of iron or steel is about the worst which we can give to our ships, for a smooth metal surface has apparently the property of attracting and detaining the particles of water in contact with it, whether by molecular attraction or otherwise. Thereby the water in immediate contact with the vessel's side or bottom is drawn along with her, and its particles communicate their motion to an outer circle of particles, and so on till a vast mass of water is set constantly in motion along with the ship.

This is precisely what we want to avoid, as the essence of the reduction of fluid friction is to slip easily through the water with the least possible disturbance. Herein lies, as I imagine, the great advantage of the surface structure of the fish. It would probably be found by experiment that an exact model of a fish in any ordinary material—as wood, iron, steel, etc.—when towed through the water at a given rate would communicate motion to a straw or light floating object lying near its course to a far greater extent than would the real fish passing through the water at the same speed. Experiment on this point would be easy and would be valuable and suggestive.—Contemporary Review.

Flaubert and France.

Flaubert believed almost to the end in the free guerrilla corps, in the "avengers to the death;" he believed that all men are soldiers and every mob an army; he believed in Glais-Bizoin and Cremieux; he believed in the proclamations; he believed in the "balloon of deliverance;" he believed in "the oath to conquer or die;" he believed that the retreats of our armies were only "strategical movements;" he believed that Rouen would blow itself into the air rather than suffer the enemy to enter into its walls; he believed that Paris would never capitulate; he believed in the sorties that were to be as a "flood overwhelming the besiegers;" he believed in the European intervention, in the arrival of the Americans, in the utter exhaustion of the Germans. He believed in everything except defeat.—Maxime du Camp's "Literary Recollections."

A Hairbreadth Escape.

"I served all through the late civil war," remarked Jonas Felt of Nashua, N. H., "and I saw a good many narrow escapes from death. About the closest shave to being killed I ever saw was this: One day a sick soldier was lying in a tent with his knapsack for a pillow. He was supposed to be out of harm's way, but a solid shot came flying through the air, struck the knapsack and carried it clean away. The only inconvenience to the invalid was the loss of his pillow and the sudden letting down of his head. As the knapsack was scarcely thicker than the missile it might be called literally a hairbreadth escape."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

It Looks Like a "Sure Thing."

The chances that an accident insurance company takes when it sells a policy good for 24 hours to a casual traveler may be estimated when it is known that the interstate commerce commission has figured out that one person is killed by railroad accidents in this county for every 1,500,000 people who ride 24 miles. Selling accident policies on these figures looks like a "sure thing" for the accident companies.—Albany Express.

THE HIGHEST AWARD.

Royal Baking Powder in Strength and Value 20 per Cent above its Nearest Competitor.

The Royal Baking Powder has the enviable record of having received the highest award for articles of its class—greatest strength, purest ingredients, most perfectly combined—wherever exhibited in competition with others. In the exhibitions of former years, at the Centennial, at Paris, Vienna and at the various State and Industrial Fairs, where it has been exhibited, judges have invariably awarded the Royal Baking Powder the highest honors.

At the recent World's Fair the examination for the baking powder awards were made by the experts of the Chemical Division of the Agricultural Department at Washington. The official report of the tests of the baking powders which were made by this department for the specific purpose of ascertaining which was the best, and which has been made public, shows the leavening strength of the Royal to be 160 cubic inches of carbonic gas per ounce of powder. Of the cream of tartar baking powders exhibited at the Fair, the next highest in strength thus tested contained but 133 cubic inches of leavening gas. The other powders gave an average of 111. The Royal, therefore, was found of 20 per cent greater leavening strength than its nearest competitor, and 44 per cent above the average of all the other tests. Its superiority in other respects, however, in the quality of the food it makes as to fineness, delicacy and wholesomeness, could not be measured by figures.

It is these high qualities, known and appreciated by the women of the country for so many years, that have caused the sales of the Royal Baking Powder, as shown by statistics, to exceed the sales of all other baking powders combined.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

bylocal applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucuous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucuous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

CAMPING AT Sweet Brier Camp

A New and Beautiful MOUNTAIN RETREAT,

In the Vicinity of Castle Crags & Mt. Shasta.

Read what the Rev. Dr. J. K. McLean, Pastor of the First Congregational Church, Oakland, says of it:

Hazel Creek, April 14, '94.

* * * I am more than pleased with it—delighted. The place seems to me to embody all available points for a camp—dry, firm soil, good water (the very best), fine chances for drainage, and scenery unsurpassable. The view of Mt. Shasta is one of the very best to be had from any point; it is visible from every part of the ground. The view of the Crags also is fine. The general environment is of the best. It is an oval shaped amphitheater, three miles long by one fourth to ⅜ of a mile wide, with receding walls two to three thousand feet in height, with lines and shades of beauty at every reach. I doubt if a better place can be found in all Northern California.

Fifty cents is a small doctor bill, but that is all it will cost you to cure any ordinary case of rheumatism if you use Chamberlain's Pain Balm. Try it and you will be surprised at the prompt relief it affords. The first application will quiet the pain. 50 cent bottles for sale by all dealers.

A large force of hay-makers are engaged on the Senator Jones and Rose ranches south of town in spreading the hay that had been cut and stacked previous to the late rain. It is thought that much of it will be saved. The two ranches are the largest in Sonoma Valley and will produce this season many thousands of tons of hay.

The election for Trustees in the Flowery School District held on Friday of last week was a spirited contest. The candidates were Mrs. Capt. Oliver, Edward Steiger and Morris Soberbier, the latter being supported by M. K. Cady and his friends. The contest resulted in the selection of Mrs. Oliver and Mr. Steiger, both of whom have made excellent Trustees in the past. The latter has been a Trustee of the Flowery District ever since it was formed fifteen years ago. At that time the school opened with eight scholars. The attendance is now forty.

A number of the party-going people of Sonoma and Glen Ellen are taking an active interest in the ball which will take place at the Park Pavilion in the latter place next Wednesday evening. A large number will be in attendance from this place and Glen Ellen. Walcott's brass band of San Francisco, which will furnish the music, is composed of eight pieces, and upon the arrival of the train in Sonoma on the evening of the ball a short stop will be made at the depot and the band will play a few airs. The gentlemen having the affair in hand is a sufficient guarantee that a pleasant time will be had by all who attend. A fine supper is guaranteed for 35 cents each. It will be a bright moonlight night and a large turn out of Sonoma Valley people is assured.

City Trustees.

There was a full Board present at the regular monthly meeting of the City Trustees held last Wednesday evening.

Clerk Breitenbach brought to the attention of the Board the necessity of immediate action in regard to building a jail.

After discussing the matter at length President Seipp appointed the following committee to prepare plans and report at the next meeting: Trustees Bulotti, Poppe, and Schocken.

Fifty-five dollars were appropriated for repairing the city's one half of Fifth-street West and Germany street, the work to be done by Wm. Switzer, the county's employee.

Ordinance No. 46, amending section 11 of Ordinance No. 4, was introduced by Trustee Schocken and read the first time.

Trustee Poppe introduced the following resolutions which were adopted:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this Board that all agreements and promises made by individual members of this Board in relation to any business concerning the City of Sonoma outside of any regular or special meeting of this Board are calculated to create trouble and confusion.

Resolved, Further, that no business of any kind whatever relating to the City of Sonoma be transacted except at a regular or special meeting of the Board.

A petition signed by twelve saloon keepers praying the Board to reduce the saloon license was read by the Clerk, and on motion of Trustee Ludeman the petition was laid over until the next meeting of the Board.

Trustee Ludeman moved that the Plaza Committee be authorized to expend a sum of money not exceeding $20 for hoeing and watering the young trees and mowing down the high weeds in the Plaza. The motion was seconded by Trustee Schocken and carried.

The following bills were allowed and ordered paid:

Election officers service	$21 60
H. H. Granice, printing	47 50
G. Spanning, cleaning fire apparatus	7 50
D. Valente, labor	6 00
L. Breitenbach, labor	4 00
J. D. Wagnon, labor	3 80
Eugene Robin, salary	21 00
L. H. Green, lumber	5 28
J. Fochetti, blacksmithing	2 50

The Board then adjourned.

Sonoma County School Census.

The following school census figures are taken from County Superintendent Martin's annual report: Total number of census children, between the ages of five and seventeen years, 8,896, of which 4,576 are boys and 4,320 girls—256 more boys than girls. The total census is 316 over last year, the largest gain known for many years. Under five years of age, 3,134, a gain of 110 over last year. Number of children who have attended public schools during the year, 6,777—301 gain over last year. The native born children are 11,708, foreign born, 332.—Democrat.

Native Sons of Sonoma.

Sonoma Parlor. No. 111, N. S. G. W., on Monday last elected the following officers to serve for the ensuing term: Past President, Geo. Engler; President, L. H. Green; First Vice President, O. W. Gericke; Second Vice President, A. C. Abshire; Third Vice President, J. E. Poppe; Treasurer, G. S. Harris; Secretary, George Breitenbach; Marshal, Thos. Ellis; Trustee, W. W. Ellis.

A Celestial Phenomena.

On Wednesday night last between 8 and 9 o'clock a large star was observed in the southern horizon traveling at railroad speed in a northerly direction. Suddenly it became fixed and remained stationary. The star was twice as large as Venus. At first it was thought to be an ærolite, but when it ceased its flight through the heavens and became motionless those who observed it were startled and at a loss to account for the phenomenon.

An Outrage on Taxpayers.

It is rumored that the High School Trustees at a meeting held one day this week decided to buy the old College building on Broadway for $2,100. As it would take about twice that sum to put the old concern in a safe and presentable condition we opine that the tax-payers of the Union High School District will have something to say in the matter. It would be an outrage to foist the old ramshackle of a building on an already over-taxed people. Give us a High School building by all means, but give us one that will not prove a white elephant on our hands. Public sentiment in Sonoma Township is against the purchase of the college building for High School purposes.

Schocken always keeps on hand a complete stock of fresh groceries and dry goods. *

THE HORSE RACE.

Chas. Potter's Cap Distanced by Billy Campbell's Pink Eye Prince.

A very exciting horse race took place last Monday morning between Chas. Potter's handsome iron gray saddle horse and Billy Campbell's Pin Eye Prince, better known as the "Sonoma speedy gray." The race, which has been looked forward to with much interest by a number of our sporting people for the past few weeks was run from Wilson's corner to the College building on Broadway, a distance of a half a mile. Promptly at 11:30 o'clock, the time set for the race, both horses were on the grounds, where in a few moments was to be settled the long-debated question which of the two was the best horse. Charley was mounted on his horse which was in excellent condition, and thinking that the race was a dead sure thing in his favor, galloped his animal a few times up and down the street to show what a fine looking animal his iron gray was. Billy Campbell, thinking himself too heavy to ride his horse called upon Joe Ryan, who is an expert rider, to act as jockey in his place. Joe thereupon mounted the Pink Eye, who was also in very good condition for a race, and without whip, bridle or spurs, but with an old halter on his horse's head, walked him towards the starting point when time was called, in order to show that beauty was only skin deep, but muscle was to the bone. Upon reaching the starting point both horses were walked a few yards below the wire and galloped slowly back so as to get as even a start as possible. Charley, having the quickest horse on the start, was one length ahead when the word "go" was given by the judges. As soon as he saw that it was a start he commenced giving his horse a slack line and urged him with the whip to keep the lead. The Pink Eye, however, not even under the lash, after making a few of his long leaps, was neck to neck with his opponent. Another fifty yards was reached and Charley, still freely giving his horse the whip found himself fifteen yards in the rear, when he began to realize that he had run up against a horse that was far superior to his iron gray. Still, not losing confidence in his animal, and knowing that they had yet over a quarter of a mile to run, he began laying the lash still harder onto Cap, who was already straining every muscle in his body, while the Pink Eye, not running much over half his actual speed, was gaining all the time. As the latter went over the mark at the end of the stretch he was fully one hundred and twenty yards in the lead and was skipping away from Cap at every leap like a hair from a setter dog. Pink Eye Prince is now backed for a mile race against any horse in Sonoma Valley.

SONOMA DAY.

A Big Time at the Midwinter Fair Next Friday — Reduced Railroad Rate.

Sonoma County Day at the Midwinter Fair will be June 15th. The opening exercises, to be held a 1 o'clock in the Horticultural building at the Sonoma County exhibit, will be very interesting. There will be remarks by M. H. DeYoung, Director-General. The Sonoma Valley Band of twenty pieces will furnish music for the occasion, and in addition there will be special musical features consisting of a male quartette, and a vocal duet by two ladies, also a solo by Miss Julie Granice, all of whom are singers of great talent. The latter will be accompanied by the Sonoma Valley Band.

The oration will be delivered by one of the most prominent speakers in the State.

At the close of the exercises refreshments will be furnished free.

The Executive Committee and Mr. Close, manager of the exhibit, are making extraordinary efforts to have Sonoma county, the banner county of the State, make this the banner day of the Fair.

For this occasion the San Francisco and North Pacific Railway will make the rates to San Francisco from all points in Sonoma county, one fare for the round trip. Tickets for sale on Friday will be good on all trains to San Francisco on that day, and to return on all trains on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

On Saturday and Sunday afternoons, trains leaving San Francisco at 5:10 and 5 P. M., respectively, will run through to Cloverdale.

Are you insured? If not, now is the time to provide yourself and family with a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy as an insurance against any serious results from an attack of bowel complaint during the summer months. It is almost certain to be needed and should be procured at once. No other remedy can take its place or do its work. 25 and 50 cent bottles, for sale by all dealers.

All who are going to attend can bring a cake and leave it at the Sonoma County Exhibit in Horticultural Hall and those who cannot attend will please leave their donation with Mr. Perkins in Duhring's store next Wednesday or Thursday and it will be forwarded to the Fair at Mr. Robt. Hall's expense.

There was a meeting of wine-makers on Friday of last week in the office of the State Viticultural Commissioner in San Francisco to consider means of relieving the present depressed condition of the wine industry. Various plans were discussed. Some of those present favored the establishment in the East of cafes, in which California wine would be sold at popular prices. It was suggested that in this way the consumption could be enlarged and the merits of our wines be effectively advertised. Another plan meeting with approval was that of withholding one-third of the vintage of the present season from the market, so as to relieve the present congested condition. No final action was taken on any of the plans suggested. The Chairman, I. de Turk, was authorized to appoint a committee of seven, one member from each of the chief viticultural districts of the State, to consider the whole subject and take such advisory steps as may appear to be most desirable to accomplish the object sought.

If you want a good ending to a little party take all the guests into the dining room and turn out the gas. Make them all sit around the table, in the middle of which place a soup plate. In the soup plate put some common salt and a little alcohol. Light the alcohol and then look at each other's faces. They will look natural at first, but as the alcohol burns out and the salt becomes ignited the flame changes from yellow to blue, and the changes in the faces are very startling. They all take on a ghastly look. Eyes stick out, and the skin looks as though drawn tight like parchment. Then the faces become almost black, and when the flame dies out and you go out into a lighted room you unconsciously try to wipe the black off. But it doesn't come. It's all the light from the salt.

Dr. M. J. Davis is a prominent physician of Lewis, Cass county, Iowa, and has been actively engaged in the practice of medicine at that place for the past thirty-five years. On the 26th of May, while in Des Moines, en route to Chicago, he was suddenly taken with an attack of Diarrhœa. Having sold Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy for the past seventeen years, and knowing its reliability, he procured a 25 cent bottle, two doses of which completely cured him. The excitement and change of water and diet incident to traveling often produce a diarrhœa. Every one should procure a bottle of this remedy before leaving home. For sale by all dealers.

SONOMA INDEX - TRIBUNE.

SONOMA, SATURDAY, JUNE 7, 1894.

A NICE, SOFT WAY.

It Brought an Expression of Gratitude From the Beneficiary.

The relator of this story was on his way up Monroe avenue the other day when a chap who looked seedily anxious stopped him at Farmer street to say:

"I think you can tell me what I am very anxious to find out. Can there be such a thing as a snake in the human stomach?"

"Why, I have heard of such cases."

"Did you ever see one?"

"No. Why do you ask?"

"Well, I met a chap down here who was complaining that he swallowed a snake 10 years ago, and that it was bothering him a great deal. He seemed an honest, truthful man, but I didn't know what to make of his story."

"Did that snake want anything in particular just then?"

"The chap said as how he did, sir, and that was why I was suspicious of him."

"Did he say it was about the usual hour for the snake to take a glass of beer?"

"He did, sir. That's exactly what he said."

"And if he didn't get it he would keep on acting up and making things unpleasant?"

"Yes, sir."

"Man appeared to be conscientious and truthful, eh?"

"Indeed he did."

"He wouldn't have deceived you just to get a glass of beer?"

"I don't think he would, sir. He was holding his hands on his sides, just this way, and his face was all screwed up, like this, and I don't think he would act that way unless there was something wrong."

"But you didn't help him?"

"N-no, sir. I wanted to be sure, you know."

"I think I know the man. I think he is standing right here beside me. Here is a nickel to stop that riot going on down behind his vest, and there's plenty of saloons in this locality."

"Sir," he said as he received the coin and bowed and scraped, "I am 55 years old and have traveled all over the world, but I am free to say that you have the nicest, softest way of doing something for a man without letting him know it that I ever did behold. Myself, and the other fellow, and the ruction are obliged to you, sir, and may you live a thousand years and never know a sorrow."—Detroit Free Press.

Stories of Jay Gould.

These two anecdotes about the late Jay Gould are new, and, what is better, are true: When Mr. Gould was a young man, in a New Jersey town, he was taken violently ill, and a lady undertook to see him through. He never forgot it, and when any of his old friends of former days came to see him—and his office door always had the latchstring outside for such—he was wont to ask after this particular woman. She had an adopted child, married, living in the far west, and the lady when she became old resolved on seeing her, and after a year's privation saved enough money to make the journey.

Mr. Gould happened at the last moment to learn of her scheme, and post haste passes were collected for the whole distance there and back and mailed her without a word of comment. The old lady could not sleep for three nights for the special wonder as to how Mr. Gould had learned of her intended trip.

At another time an old friend who had just about lifted a mortgage on his farm was seized with inflammatory rheumatism and was in the depths of despair. Accidentally learning of it, Mr. Gould sent him a check for a good, round amount, and the effect was electrical, for the man was at once well.—Hardware.

Gray Wolves.

As a rule, the gray wolf soon disappears from settled regions. In the United States there is probably not one wolf today where 20 years ago there were 50. The killing of the ranchmen's cattle, colts and sheep was not to be tolerated, and a bounty was put on the gray wolf's head, with fatal effect. More deadly than the steel trap or the winchester, the strychnine bottle was universally brought to bear upon his most vulnerable point—his ravenous appetite. Even during the last days of the buffalo in Montana, the hunters poisoned wolves by hundreds for their pelts, which were worth from $3 to $5 each. Now it is a very difficult matter to find a gray wolf, even in the wild west, and in Montana and Wyoming they are almost as scarce as bears.—W. T. Hornaday in St. Nicholas.

At the Barracks.

The colonel on his tour of inspection unexpectedly entered the drill-room where he came upon a couple of soldiers, one of whom was reading a letter aloud while the other was listening, and at the same time stopping up the ears of the reader.

"What are you doing there?" the puzzled officer inquired of the latter.

"You see, colonel, I am reading to Pitou, who can't read himself, a letter from his sweetheart."

"And you, Pitou?"

"Please, colonel, I am stopping up Boquillon's ears with both hands, because I don't mind his reading my sweetheart's letter, but I don't want him to know what she writes."—Famille.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

REFORM IN DREAM GULCH.

A Chapter From the Earlier History of a Lively Mining Camp.

"There were a good many curious people in Dream Gulch in its earlier days," said an old "Forty-niner," "but perhaps none of them was more curious than William Blint, the hearse driver. As a matter of fact there was no hearse, but there was a wagon which was used for a hearse, and William Blint drove it. Blint's peculiarity lay in his whistling, and he wasn't a remarkably good whistler, either. But he whistled all the time, on duty and off. I've seen him walking into a cabin with a coffin on his shoulder whistling, and I've seen him whistling while he was driving a hearse, and he wasn't a hard hearted man, you understand. On the contrary, he was very gentle hearted.

"There was an accident in one of the mines in the gulch, and a lot of men were killed. The whole camp turned out at the funeral—in fact, the whole camp was greatly touched, and even the gambling houses were closed. Among the miners at the funeral there was one named Melancthon Ingby, a newcomer. It so happened that when the procession started off this man Ingby was right alongside the head hearse, which Bill drove. When the procession moved, Bill began to whistle as usual. This man Ingby listened to him for about a minute, apparently very much surprised, and then he surprised everybody else by shooting William off the box, and when Bill fell to the ground this man Ingby got up and took his place.

"There was an inquest over Bill, but Ingby was vindicated by the coroner's jury, and public sentiment vindicated him too. The fact is Bill's peculiarity had come over the gulchers so gradually that they had never realized the true nature of it. But Ingby's pistol shot waked 'em up, and it led to a general demand on the authorities that the new hearse driver should be a man that didn't whistle."—New York Sun.

Facts About Baldness.

It is estimated that at least fifty men to one woman go bald, which is perhaps to be accounted for by the fact that the regular brushing usually performed by the fair sex before retiring to rest is very beneficial to the hair's growth. The constant wetting of the head, common among men who indulge in a matutinal cold tub, is stated to be the cause of much baldness among men. Apropos of this subject, have you noticed what an apparent epidemic of baldness prevails among chemists? Why is it? Much study, we believe, is not conducive to the luxuriant head of hair. But, then, this particular profession is not the only one where much learning and burning of the midnight oil are necessary!

Medical and law students have both to work hard at their books to pass their various examinations, but their studies do not seem to affect their hair, whereas quite young chemists are to be frequently encountered with heads perfectly innocent of any suspicion of hirsute covering.—New York Mail and Express.

Why Hair Turns Gray.

Hundreds of queer theories have been advanced to account for the phenomenon of hair turning gray in the genus homo, the latest being this: Each hair is a hollow tube filled with granules of pigment and air bubbles. As old age approaches, the pigment diminishes both in quantity and quality, the air bubbles enlarging and expanding to take the place formerly occupied by the coloring matter. The hair, which is filled with these bubbles, turns white for the same reason that the crystals of white sugar appear of that color, the phenomenon being due to the reflection and refraction of light. Why hair sometimes turns "white in a single night" has never been explained. But a microscopic examination of such hairs shows that the granules of pigment have either been absorbed or forced out by the air bubbles, but exactly how or why is a mystery.—St. Louis Republic.

An Amusing Bill.

The English in which some of the natives of India write their bills is sometimes very amusing. A friend showed me one that had been made out in which the native had wished to charge them for a gosling and also for the tip that had been bestowed on the bearer of the bird. It ran thus:

	Annas.
Reward to a hermit	2
One goose's pup	4

OUR NEW 1893 FLOWER SEED OFFER.

A Magnificent Collection of FLOWER SEEDS 200 Varieties, FREE!

An Unparalleled Offer by an Old-Established and Reliable Publishing House! The Ladies' World is a large 32-page, 36-column illustrated Magazine for ladies and the family circle. It is devoted to stories, poems, ladies' fancy work, artistic needlework, home decoration, housekeeping, fashions, hygiene, juvenile reading, etiquette, etc. To introduce this charming ladies' paper into 100,000 homes where it is not already taken, we now make the following colossal offer: Upon receipt of only 12 Cents in silver or stamps, we will send The Ladies' World for Three Months, and to each subscriber we will also send Free and postpaid, a large and magnificent Collection of Choice Flower Seeds, two hundred varieties, including Pansies, Verbenas, Chrysanthemums, Asters, Phlox Drummondii, Balsam, Cypress Vine, Stocks, Digitalis, Double Zinnia, Pinks, etc., etc. Remember, twelve cents pays for the magazine three months and this entire magnificent Collection of Choice Flower Seeds, put up by a first-class Seed House and warranted fresh and reliable. No lady can afford to miss this wonderful opportunity. We guarantee every subscriber many times the value of money sent, and will refund your money and make you a present of both seeds and Magazine if you are not satisfied. Ours is an old and reliable publishing house, endorsed by all the leading newspapers. We have received hundreds of testimonials from pleased patrons during the past five years: "I had beautiful flowers from the seeds you sent me two years ago, and from experience know the seeds are exactly as advertised."—Mrs. N. C. Bayum, Dana, Wis. "Myself and friends have sent for various things advertised by you, and have found them to be entirely satisfactory."—M. J. Davis, Brooklyn, N. Y. Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher (a regular subscriber), and Grace Greenwood, each ordered our seeds last season. Do not confound this offer with the catchpenny schemes of unscrupulous persons. Write to-day—don't put it off! Six subscriptions and six Seed Collections sent for 60 cents.

SPECIAL OFFER! To any lady sending us 13 cents for above offer, and naming the paper in which she saw this advertisement, we will send free, in addition to all the above, one packet of the celebrated Eckford Sweet Peas, embracing the newest varieties, including Henrietta, Ira Eckford, Splendor, The Queen, Orange Prince, Apple Blossom, etc. Sweet Peas are the most popular and fashionable bouquet flowers now cultivated, and the Eckford Varieties which we offer, are the largest, finest and most celebrated known. They grow to a height of 6 feet, and produce for three months a continuous profusion of fragrant blooms of the most brilliant coloring.

ANOTHER GREAT OFFER! Upon receipt of Thirty-five Cents (our regular subscription price) we will send The Ladies' World for One Year, together with our magnificent Collection of Choice Flower Seeds above described, likewise one packet of the extensively advertised and justly celebrated Eckford Sweet Peas.
